INTRODUCTION

A chargeback is the reversal of a sale transaction. They can occur when a customer refuses to accept responsibility for a charge on their credit card, or the issuing bank doesn't receive an authorization approval code.

The payment brands have established time frames within which issuers and acquirers must act or respond. Time frames vary by the payment brand, type of chargeback (technical or customer dispute), and by the reason code associated with the chargeback.

Acquirer Time Frames for MasterCard and Visa

MasterCard must receive our response, "representment" of the transaction details, by the 45th calendar day since the chargeback was initiated. To meet that deadline, we must receive "recourse requests" by the due date indicated on the Online Chargeback Management System screen, or your chargeback paperwork. This is the 39th calendar day from the day the chargeback was initiated. The Return by Date is set to give us sufficient time to process the recourse request and represent the chargeback within the 45-day time frame.

Visa must receive our response, "Dispute Response" for collaboration disputes or a "Pre-Arbitration" for allocation disputes by the due date indicated on the Online Chargeback Management System screen, or your chargeback paperwork. The Return by Date is set to give us sufficient time to process the recourse request and represent the chargeback within the Visa deadlines.

For all networks it is important for you to respond by the due date given to ensure adequate time to complete processing.

Reason Code, Time Frame, and Dispute Type

The information in this guide presents the reason code, time frame for chargeback processing, and the chargeback type. Also included are the reason code descriptions and an indication of when the allowable time frame begins.

Information for each reason code may include:

- Reason code number
- Reason code description
- Time frame for initiation
- Type of chargeback
- Dispute description
- Special notes (if any)
- Required issuer documentation
- Re-presentment rights/Client
- Pre-arbitration rights/Client

RETRIEVAL REASON CODES

A retrieval request is an issuer's request for a transaction receipt, which could include the original printing, a paper copy, fax, or a digital version (such as a scanned copy).

To fulfill a retrieval request the acquirer must provide the documentation described below depending on the "Fulfillment Types", within 30 days of our receipt of the retrieval request.

A fulfillment must:

- Be legible enough for the cardholder to read or for the issuer to identify the account number or token
- Include the unique 12-digit identifier assigned by VisaNet to a request for a Transaction Receipt copy
- For a US domestic transaction, include a unique 9-digit control number assigned by the issuer to identify the source of the request

In the event that a merchant does not respond to a ticket retrieval request within 21 days to allow processing time, a chargeback may result in a reason code that cannot be represented.
